

Yes, No, Stand Up

No-prep energizer · ages 6 to adult · beginner and up · about 5 minutes

① How to play

- Set up. Push bags under the desks so the aisles are clear and everyone has room to stand.
- Check the language. Write YES, NO and SOMETIMES on the board with an action for each: yes, stand up; no, sit down; sometimes, hands on your head.
- Model it, then ask. Ask yourself a question and answer with your body: "Do I like coffee? Yes! Up I go." Then ask the class easy questions: "Do you like pizza?"
- Say it as you move. Students say the short answer as they move: "Yes, I do!", "No, I can't!", "Sometimes!" Throw in a trick question, then hand the questions to a student.

② Tips

Use one freeze signal: raise your hand and count down from three. Six to eight questions is plenty, then sit everyone down and start the lesson.

Add a trick question ("Is $2 + 2 = 5$?",) to keep everyone listening. Once they have it, a student asks the questions and you join in.

③ Easier and harder

Easier: Show a picture with each question and use yes and no only.

Harder: Anyone standing tells someone sitting one detail: "Have you ever been on a plane?" "Yes, I have. I went to Spain!"

④ What students say

Young learners

Do you like pizza?
Yes, I do! / No, I don't! /
Sometimes!

Older kids

Can you swim?
Yes, I can! / No, I can't!

Teens and adults

Have you ever been on a plane?
Yes, I have. I went to Spain!

⑤ The language

Yes/no questions and short answers: Do you...? (Yes, I do. / No, I don't.), Can you...? (Yes, I can. / No, I can't.), Have you ever...? (Yes, I have. / No, I haven't.), and "sometimes"; for older students one detail in the past simple.

⑥ Why it works

Every question is about the students' own lives, so every answer is real. They listen, decide, move and speak, and the short answer has to match the question, so the grammar does a real job.

Question bank

Pick six to eight. Mix in one trick question.
